

Albert Ernest Warby (18 April 1880 – 15 February 1919)

Arthur Ernest was the son of Arthur and Louisa Warby (nee Farmer) who married in Brentford in 1876. Arthur (senior) was born in Southall and his wife Louisa in Wiltshire and Arthur was a Miller. They had five children but only two survived into adulthood. Arthur Ernest was the eldest of these. He had a younger brother George William Avis Warby who was twelve years younger, born in 1892.

In 1881 and 1891 the family were living in Cooks Cottages, Heston Road, Heston. However by 1901 Arthur (senior) and his family were at 5 Napier Road, Isleworth. Wife Louisa was working as a “Monthly Nurse” who is a person who attends women in their first month after giving birth. Arthur Ernest was then aged 21 and employed as a Slater. He married Ellen Muriel Taylor in Brentford in May 1902. In 1911 Arthur Ernest and Ellen were living at 3 Napier Road with five daughters; Florence (aged eight), Violet (aged five), Grace (aged three), Lilian (aged two) and Edith (aged eight months). His occupation was slater tiler. His parents and younger brother were living next door at number 5. Arthur (senior) died in 1914 leaving Louisa a widow. Between 1911 and 1917 Albert Ernest and Ellen had four more children and three of these survived infancy: Constance Ellen Muriel (born 1912), Ethel Olive (born 1915) and Hilda Mary (born 1917).

Arthur Ernest’s younger brother George William Avis Warby, enlisted in the Royal Flying Corp in February 1916 and served as an air mechanic 1. He transferred to the RAF when it was created in 1918. He survived the war and moved into the RAF Reserve in May 1919.

Arthur enlisted into the Royal Field Artillery, 277th Brigade D Company. He was still in the army when he became ill in February 1919 and was admitted to Hounslow Military Hospital in Heston with acute bronchitis. He died at the Hospital on 15 February 1919 aged 39. He was buried in Isleworth Cemetery in a grave he now shares with his wife Ellen and his daughter Edith. He is also remembered at All Souls Church.

Ellen was left as a widow with eight daughters aged between 16 and 1 years old. She did not remarry. Seven of her daughters got married and continued to live in the west London area. In 1939 Ellen was living next door to one of her married daughters in Hayes. She died in 1953.
